

Winter Tree Identification Workshop

Saturday, February 6th

1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Ballard Nature Center

5253 E. US Hwy 40

Altamont, Illinois

618/483-6856

Learn how to identify the most common trees in your woods by looking at the buds, bark, and other clues.

Join IFA Vice-President John Edgington, retired University of Illinois forestry instructor, for this interesting afternoon workshop on winter tree identification. Meet in the classroom (basement) for a brief slide presentation before heading outdoors to look at some of the unmistakable identifying characteristics of tree twigs and bark.

Class size is limited to the first 25 who register. This event is free, with donations suggested to support the ongoing programs at the Ballard Nature Center.

<http://www.ballardnaturecenter.org/>

Sponsored by...

ILLINOIS
Forestry Association

Ballard Nature

Center

It's FREE, but LET US KNOW YOU'RE COMING...

Winter offerings like this can be a little iffy with the weather being unpredictable this far out. We will need to know that enough people are coming for John to make the trip, and also to inform folks if the event has to be cancelled, so PLEASE REGISTER no later than NOON on Thursday, February 4th by calling the Ballard Nature Center at 618/483-6856.